PAVILION REOPENED AT JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, Va.- The Old World Pavilion of the Jamestown Festival Park was reopened to the public on May 12. The British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Harold Caccia, K.C.M.G., participated in ceremonies rededicating the elaborate exhibit of the background of British life which led to the settlement of Jamestown.

The Festival Parrk and Jamestown Island will be in full operation again this year, it has been announced by Parks Rouse, Jr., executive director of the Virginia 350th Anniversary Commission. All of the exhibits and historical reconstructions which were unveiled during the birthday-year celebration of 1957 will again be open to visitors, he said.

Supplementing the exhibits, the Jamestown Corporation will repeat last year's successful run of Paul Greene's outdoor Jamestown drama, "The Founders," from July 8 through August 31.

New Fireproofing?

Washington.- Houses may be fireproof one day beause someone in Louisville, Ky., was curious as to why the city dump would not accept banana stalks for burning. As a result, chemists at the United States Forest Service's laboratory at Madison, Wis., are hot on the trail of a possible new fire retardant. They found that a mineral ingredient in stalks largely potassium carbonate, acted as a natural retardant.

The Forest Products Laboratory is conducting new tests in the hope of developing the chemical compound as a commercial fireproofing agent.

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

Lincoln's Devotional,

with introduction by Carl Sandburg.

The discovery of Abraham Lincoln's personal, signed copy of a charming "vestpocket" devotional has excited the public and historians alike — for here is new testimony to the depth of Lincoln's faith, new light in an area previously clouded by uncertainty. In his moving introduction to this faithful edition of the 100 year old book of daily Scriptural messages and inspirational verse, Carl Sandburg knits together fact and conjecture about Lincoln's religious feelings. We are able to picture Abraham Lincoln carrying this little volume with him.
